Hotels can serve many purposes, from simple lodging to cool hangout and they can amp up their cool factor simply by installing swank drinking quarters. These six hotels boast just that: cool cocktails, hip digs and a fun scene.

Redwood Room at the Cliff Hotel

2 of 7

Cliff's famous and historic Redwood Room has been restored and reinvented as an exceptionally elegant and modern San Francisco bar. The original redwood paneling and enormous bar, which, legend has, was carved from a single redwood tree, is known for their "Foggy Manhattan" cocktail. Served in a martini glass, the ingredients include: Bols Genever, Lillet Blanc, Orange Bitters, Benedictine, and Marasca Cherries.

The South Beach area of Miami Beach is a primary entertainment destination for restaurants, shopping, boutique hotels and beach life. While the surrounding Miami Beach area provides even more choices for entertainment and activities, the ambiance at the hotel's lounge can be just as inviting. The award-winning Spiga restaurant features the Spicy Italian, using a refreshing blend of blood-orange liqueur Aperol like Solerno and pineapple infused tequila.

Drink Shop at the W Hotel, Atlanta

5 of 7

The Drinkshop Bar in downtown Atlanta's W Hotel puts an end to soda guns and premade anything, instead focusing on unique, freshly made mixers and a spirit selection of independent labels, like the those featured in their "Milagro Honey Mint Paloma." Watch the impeccable craftsmanship used to concoct cocktails in artistic divination, finished with pure and homemade ingredients and garnishes.
